Child Health Day To Be Observed On Thursday, May 5th

All Schools In The County,
Then In Session Invited To Take Part

(By Chairman Child Health Day Committee)

May Day has for many years been used as an occasion for calling attention to the importance of the health of school children. In 1928 May first was officially designated by Congress as special health day. As it falls on Sunday this year, it will be observed in Grenada schools Thursday, May 5. All schools of the county that are in session on this date are invited to join Grenada in paying honor to childhood and to communicate with Miss Lizzie Horn for details.

Health has been called the first objective of education. Yet our health conditions are sometimes faulty and our health activities inadequate. More and more are we faced with the fact that in order to build a strong, healthy nation we must first build strong, healthy children.

It is the objective of the State Department of Health so to bring to the attention of the public the importance of child health and so to create an interest in its promotion that every county in the state will employ a full-time health nurse. This will be an important stride toward establishing a complete health department. Two-thirds of the counties of Mississippi do not have adequate health departments. Grenada numbers among those that do not!

Our May Day program challenges every adult and child to help in some way to advance the progress of child health. All homes and public eating places are requested to place menus with special health items on the table. Nourishing foods and to label the menus "Child Health Day Menu." Will not the merchants, too, cooperate by arranging their window displays to emphasize child health? It is fitting that child health be given a place, also, in messages from the pulpit on Sunday, May first.

The P. T. A. will again sponsor the sale of tags, the proceeds of which will be used to further its health program. The hour and place of the program to be given in the afternoon of May Day will be announced at a later date. Watch the newspapers for other plans for our May Day celebration.

20th Century Club to Close Year's Study

400 Leading Delta Business and Professional Men to Fire Opening Guns In Budget Campaign April 18

Some 400 of the Delta's leading business and professional men will fire the opening guns of the Boy Scout Delta Area Council's annual budget campaign April 18, according to plans made public today by Max Friedman of Clarksdale, council finance chairman.

Goal set by the Boy Scout enthusiasts is $11,500 to be raised in the 13 counties comprising the Delta Area Council.

"Scouting is making great progress in the Delta," Mr. Friedman said, "and we are confident that the people of the Delta will continue to support this great movement and that our goal will be reached during the three days of the annual drive, dates of which are Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, April 18, 19, 20."

Continuing, Mr. Friedman said: "We are being backed and actively assisted by about 400 of the outstanding men of the Delta, all of whom are determined that our budget of $11,500 will be reached in order that work of the organization may continue at its present satisfactory pace."

Miss Emogene Peeples Answers The Master's Call

Miss Peeples Had Been In
Ill Health For The Past
Several Months

(By Gore Springs Correspondent)

On April 6th death claimed the body of Miss Emogene Peeples, who had been in ill health for several months. Miss Peeples had spent her entire life in Grenada county and was loved by all who knew her. For the past two years she had made her home with her niece, Mrs. Jim O'Brien, of near Grenada. She was born and reared in the Gore Springs community and was a member of the Methodist Church.

Nothing can be said of her but that which is good. There never lived a more consecrated character. Funeral services were held at Gore Springs Church at 4 o'clock by the Rev. McKibben, of Duck Hill, with Garner Brother Funeral Home in charge. She leaves to mourn her departure, two sisters, Mrs. T. E. Hill, Grenada, and Mrs. Alice Trussell, Gore Springs, two brothers, Mr. Oscar Peeples, of Winona, and Mr. L. L. Peeples, of Grenada. The entire community extends its sympathy to the bereaved ones.

Mrs. S. F. Guest Died April 2nd After Brief Illness

Burial Was At Woodville,
Her Former Home, Sunday
Afternoon

Mrs. Emma Sue Beckham Guest, wife of S. F. Guest, passed away Saturday night, April 2 at 7:45 o'clock at the Houston Hospital. She had been ill about four weeks. Funeral services, conducted by Rev. McKibben, Methodist minister, were held the following afternoon at the Methodist Church in Woodville. She was a member of the Methodist Church.

Mrs. Guest and her husband had made their home in Grenada for the past seven months and were employed by Quinn's Milk Products Company.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Guest is survived by her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Beckham, of Woodville.

Congress Passes Amendments AAA

The Sentinel received the following telegram, dated April 4, from Congressman A. L. Ford, on Tuesday of this week:

"Congress took final action today by passing amendments to Agricultural Adjustment Act thereby giving the Secretary of Agriculture the authority to use four percentum of the state cotton acreage in correcting inequalities and making necessary adjustments to farmers."

of which are announced as follows:

- April 4—Cleveland.
- April 6—Indianola and Inverness.
- April 7—Rosedale.
- April 8—Marks.
- April 11—Belsoni.
- April 12—Winona and Greenwood.
- April 13—Greenville.

In reviewing the 1937 record of the Delta Area Council, Mr. Friedman pointed out the fact that 686 new boys were enrolled during the year. "This figure shows that our Scout organization is very much on its toes and making wonderful progress," he said.

Today the council has a membership of 1628 Scouts and Cubs, led by volunteer adult workers, all of whom are outstanding men in their respective communities and rendering invaluable service in building a stronger generation.

George Simpson, Scout Executive, has mapped out a highly ambitious program for this year, and every indication leads Council officials to predict that scouting in the Delta will continue to march forward.

A SHELF OF BOOKS

(By W. E. Boushe)

Of times, ever and anon, in the front of some magazine, I see this advertisement, "Professor Elliot's 8-Foot Shelf of Books." This holds a peculiar fascination for me and were I a few years younger, I would love to own it. I have a passion for books, "good books." A good many years ago I bought Ridpath's History of the World from a magazine article, later Burton Holmes' Travelogues, then Victor Hugo's Works, again an Encyclopedia Britannica. People read for different reasons. Some just as a delightful pastime, some for inspiration and spiritual enrichment. Then there is reading as a form of experience. Our lives are limited. We would all love to know more of life, of other people, and of other lands. But we are not all able to travel and see these things but by reading, if we read the right things, we may bring to the mental eye that which we might not otherwise see. We may roam in the fields of imaginations and increase our knowledge a thousand fold. And, also, with books one's knowledge need not be confined to the narrow limits of our own sidereal system, but into other galaxies, far grander than our own. We might go peeping them with creations of our own dreams, for "Altairs sun flash on alien seas." Just as each successive reader in school calls for the next higher, so in reading, each book we read calls for another. Each thought we gain but leads us on and calls for the time next and higher thought.

My first passion in reading was history, of which I have read a great deal, but to read history rightly, one needs must have a thorough knowledge of geography and some one properly read with-out a good reference book, there has always been "The Encyclopedia Britannica." As I said, one look and one thought progressed to the Letter From Helen E. Davis,

Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, New York

We are publishing a letter which we received from Helen E. Davis, Director, Bureau of Publication, Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, New York:

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., March 29.
Editor Grenada Sentinel,
Dear Sir:

In The Grenada Sentinel of March 11th, there appeared the following statement: "With the approval of President Henry N. MacCracken of Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., 1,200 Vassar students will sign the V. P. W. petition which calls upon Congress and the President 'to adopt and apply policies designed to keep America out of war, sponsored by a national defense program adequate to preserve and protect our country and its people.'"

President MacCracken gave consent that this petition should be circulated at Vassar but expressed no opinion as to its merits. Obviously there could be no ground for stating in advance how many students in any institution would sign any petition. (This letter is further evidence that The Sentinel is read both at home and abroad. The article referred to was furnished us by the National Headquarters, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S., Kansas City, Mo.)

SCHOOL YEAR DRAWING TO CLOSE

(By J. S. Vandiver)

As another school year is rapidly drawing to a close, we wish to express the very sincere appreciation of every member of the State Department of Education for the fine spirit of cooperation given during the past year.

At this time, we would like to call to the attention of the trustees and citizens of every school community the importance of the proper care of the school property next. My next step was astronomy. That is as delightful and fascinating a subject as any one should care to follow. Then Geology, Biology and Evolution. Archaeology, also, is always fascinating. I had the good fortune of being reared in a home where there were many good books, perhaps a thousand and I today own many hundred myself. The books my people had were all good books. They would not have allowed any other in the house. There were no picture shows to go to in those days and not much money to throw away as children have today. So I was joyful that I might have the company and entertainment of these wholesome books. On these shelves were Shakespeare, Byron, Dickens, Scott, Elliott, Washington Irving's Works, I have this old set now. Many of the pages now have drops of wax on them where it fell from the candles held in the hands of those who read in the sweet long ago. Life was much slower then than today and much learned was retained. Many a character in those old books seem a part of my life. Sometimes now I pick up Dickens, "David Copperfield," and re-read it, feeling just as if I were visiting with some loved friends of the dear dead past. In addition to those and a great many books not mentioned my people took some good magazines for us to read, Scribner's, Harper's and Frank Leslie. Then of course there was the Youth's Companion, a young people's paper which in those days no well ordered home was without. Again, no balanced library, even aside from any religious conviction (and I make no reference to this in this article) could possibly fail to give a prominent place to the Bible. It is a beautiful volume and a masterpiece in its historical sense, certainly far more accurate than any contemporary manuscript and what errors and anachronisms which may be detected might easily be ascribed to translation. No library could be without Gibbon's Roman Empire, to my mind the mightiest and most accurate work of the pen from the hand of man. The enormity of the work is inconceivable.

Revival Meeting Begins Sunday at Methodist Church

Rev. Earl Edwards Will Direct The Singing Throughout The Meeting

Attention is called again to the revival meeting scheduled to begin at the Methodist Church next Sunday morning, April 10th, at the 11 o'clock hour. All arrangements are complete and the public is most cordially invited to attend all services. The morning hour, except Sundays, will be 10 o'clock. The evening hours will be 7:30.

Rev. Earl Edwards, of Houston, will be present for the opening service and will be present throughout the week to direct the singing. Each day we will have a different minister. On Monday, April 11th, Rev. E. S. Lewis, a former pastor of the Methodist Church will preach. His many friends will welcome the opportunity of seeing and hearing him again. Let's make it "Home Coming Day" for Brother Lewis. I trust the meeting will be of great benefit to the entire community.

Faithfully yours,

history, Kotlins is readable though in its pages may be found many errors. Ridpath is highly prejudiced and full of errors though I derived much pleasure in reading it, and while I have read a great many science books, I am sure the one I place first in importance to the layman is the one by H. G. Wells, "The Science of Life," perhaps because it does not use as many technical terms as most books of the kind. In regard to this book, the Saturday Evening Post says one familiar with this work has more than a college education. It is also nice to read the best of current literature that one may not be too much at a loss in polite society (excuse the word).

It is strange what impressions books make upon people. Many years ago my people read to me in Scribner's Magazine a historical novel, "In The Valley," by Harold Frederic. I was a small boy. Thirty years afterwards I had an opportunity and bought the book at a book store. Everyone should read Shakespeare for we hear quotations from his works on every turn. Everyone should read Herodotus, Josephus and Translations of Homer Plato and other ancient classics. Everyone should read Dickens and Hugo for we come upon reminders of them almost every day of our life. Whatever you read, whenever you read, let it be something worthwhile, something which carries you a step farther and a step higher. You do not have to have a college education to read. But to read right will give you a college education. Read geology to know how life began on this world, millions of years ago. Read astronomy that you may know the splendor of other worlds than ours. Wisdom is found in books. In closing, I use a quotation which says "Gold is the mines waiting for men to dig it out," golden wisdom is in books waiting for us to absorb it. Good books are the only books worth reading. If you read good books you will want to read no other kind.

Mrs. Josephine Abel Avant Died Sunday, April 3

Mrs. Avant Was Seventy Years Old At The Time
Of Her Passing

Mrs. Josephine Abel Avant, wife of the late E. N. She was a member of the First Baptist Church.

Funeral services, conducted by Rev. E. R. Henderson, were held from the home Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Interment was in Odd Fellows cemetery.

Cotton States League To Open Season At Greenwood April 22d

Games, Except Those On Sunday, To Be Played At Night

(By R. J. Pettey)

Greenwood, Miss., March 31—There seems to be some confusion existing in and around Greenwood with reference to the admission prices to be charged at the opening game between Greenwood and Greenville on April 22. Due to circumstances over which the people of Greenwood had no control, it was necessary for us to raise several thousand dollars in order for Greenwood to remain in the league. It was the popular opinion that opening date tickets be sold to all adults for $2.00 and to all children under eighteen years of age at eleven cents. This applies to the opening game, after which time, the regular admission of 44 cents will be charged.

One of the best lighting equipments in the South is now being installed at Legion Field, and all games, except those on Sunday, will be played at night.

It is always a pleasure to have the citizens of Grenada visit Greenwood.

District Governor Visits Grenada Club This Week

Tells of Trip to The Rotary
International Convention
In Nice, France

The Grenada Rotary Club was honored with a visit by District Governor Stirling Withers, of Tunisia, at their regular weekly luncheon on Tuesday of this week.

Another visitor was G. F. Moss, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, who visited the progress Mississippi has made in road construction.

Governor Withers told of his trip to the Rotary International Convention in Nice, France, last year, of his visits to Naples, Pompeii, Mt. Vesuvius, Florence, Rome, Monte, Paris, Venice, Switzerland, and other places of interest in Europe. While on this trip he was privileged to dine with the President of France, attend a reception tendered by the Duke of Kent and was granted an audience with Premier Mussolini. His talk was very interesting and was thoroughly enjoyed.

Roy Doak, newly elected president, and O. D. Spratlin, secretary, were elected delegates to attend the District Conference to be held in Memphis, April 26 and 27.

Make a Child Happy For Easter. Adopt One and Make Your Home Happy—Both Will Be Benefitted

"Welcome happy morning, age to age shall say:
Hell today is vanquished, Heaven is born today!"

So rings the glad Easter anthem over all the world as we rejoice in the triumph of our risen Lord. But, while the world is celebrating there are hearts and homes where the deadening hands of Poverty, Sin, Disease, and Death have drawn a curtain shutting out all that is bright and joyous.

Come, walk a little way aside from the scene of gladness to a hovel where dwells a family; no window in the wall through which sun and light may come; the day is chilly and gray and the only lights comes from a few sticks burning feebly on a smoken hearth. Almost in the fire sits a child whose twisted and shrunken legs tell their own story. On a narrow bed in one corner lies a paralyzed youth; in another corner sits a girl in rags tending a fretful baby wrapped in a man's old cast-off coat. An old grandmother sits in her chair looking on with faded eyes, so long accustomed to the scene of want and misery they no longer fill with tears. In a lean-to

Return Forms SS-1a Mailed to 10,- 000 Employers

Returns To Be Made For Quarter Year Ending
March 31, 1938

Jackson, Miss., April 6—Eugene Fly, Federal Collector of Internal Revenue for the District of Mississippi, announced that his office has completed the addressing and mailing of blank return Forms SS-1a to ten thousand employers in Mississippi for their use in filing their tax and information returns required under Title VIII of the Social Security Act for the quarter year ending March 31, 1938.

This is the first tax period under the new procedure whereby Social Security tax returns are filed once every three months instead of monthly. The new forms, which have been mailed by Collector Fly, combine into one form the tax and information returns previously filed on three separate returns. Collector Fly stated: "The new quarterly return has been designed to simplify the collection of Old-Age Benefits taxes under Title VIII of the Social Security Act. Employers should have less difficulty in preparing the new quarterly returns than was encountered under the old procedure. The new return is designed to insure absolute conformity between taxable wages reported on the tax portion of the return as the basis of the taxes due, and the taxable wages reported on the information portion of the return as the basis of credits to the accounts of employees, maintained by the Social Security Board. To accomplish this, the information portion of the return, known as Schedule A, provides space for listing the taxable wages paid to every employee during the quarter-year period. When all wages have been shown on the basis for computing the taxes due for the quarter."

A Constitution Sheet, identified as Form SS-1b, has been designed for those employers having in excess of twenty employees. Supplies of continuation sheets have also been mailed by Collector to employers who require them.

The cooperation of employers in promptly filing the returns required under the Social Security Act is of vital importance to the success of the Social Security program and Collector Fly has laid (Please turn to page 6)

"Good Manners" was the topic discussed at the Girl Reserve meeting Tuesday morning. After the scripture reading by Sue Vandiver, who was in charge of the program, several girls made interesting talks on manners in the home, in public places, in school and in traveling. They all enjoyed this program and know that these hints will be a help to them in the future.

WANTED — LARGER ATTENDANCE AT BASEBALL GAMES

Baseball season is now begun and although the team is made up of boys who have never before been on the team, we have a good team and the boys are doing some splendid playing. Yet, for all their good playing, the boys are not getting the crowds they deserve. What's the matter? Don't you enjoy a 90-c baseball game? Surely, you do. So why not come on out and give the boys a good crowd? Mr. Hathorn has put the admission down so that anyone can attend—10c.

Almost all of the boys—with the exception of one or two—are boys who are new on the team. The boys are putting everything they have into these games. Let's show our appreciation. We can't all get out there and play but although we are just standing on the side lines—let's put everything we've got into those games by going out and watching our boys play a "swell" game.

TRACK MEET

In their first track meet of the season in which the Grenada High team was host to Duck Hill and Charleston, the Grenada team placed second with 49 points. The Duck Hill team placed first, scoring 70 points and Charleston third with 48½ points. The Grenada team fared best in the field events winning first place in the discus, second place in the shot put, second place in the boys' high jump, second and third place in the girls' baseball throw, first place in the girls' high jump and third place in the boys' broad jump.

As a result of the field events the Grenada and Duck Hill teams were battling for the lead, but Duck Hill drew ahead when it came to the track events. Heath from Grenada tied a Duck Hill boy

GRENADA NINE DEFEATED

BY WATER VALLEY HIGH

Probably the best game so early in the season was played at Water Valley on Thursday of last week. Although defeated, the Grenada Bulldogs put up a gallant fight to the end. Marascaleo started the hurling for Grenada, with Peacock for Water Valley. Murphy pitched for Marascaleo in the fourth inning. The batteries for Grenada were Marascaleo, Murphy and Mason. For Water Valley they were Peacock, Weir, and Knapp. In the second inning Grenada broke through a 5 to 4 lead over Water Valley, but in the sixth it was tied, 7-7. There it stayed until the last half of the ninth with two men on base, Water Valley doubled, bringing in two runs which ended the game.

The next game will be played Monday at 3:30 at Grenada—Grenada vs. Water Valley.

Strength During MIDDLE LIFE

Strength is extra-important for women going through the change of life. Then the body needs the very best nourishment to fortify it against the changes that are taking place.

In such cases, Cardui has proved helpful to many women. It increases the appetite and aids digestion, favoring more complete transformation of food into living tissue, resulting in improved nutrition and building up and strengthening of the whole system.

Job Insurance

What It Means to You

By LEON L. WHITLEY, Executive Director
Mississippi Unemployment Compensation Commission

This Commission has already received thousands of claims from unemployed workers who will be mailed weekly benefit checks. Questions that have already been answered in this column are "Who will be eligible for these checks?" and "How much will the benefit amounts be?"

This time an explanation will be given of the duration of an individual's benefit payments.

Question: If a person remains unemployed and eligible for benefits, will he go on getting weekly benefit amounts indefinitely?

Answer: No. The maximum number of payments that any one can receive is definitely limited.

Q: Why limit the number of payments?

A: The amount of money that the Commission can pay out is limited by the size of the unemployment trust fund.

Q: What is the greatest amount that any one can receive during his benefit year?

A: Fourteen full payments of his weekly benefit amount.

Q: Will some claimants get less than this amount even if they remain unemployed and eligible?

A: Yes. No one will be paid more than one-sixth of the unchanged wage credits that he acquired during his base period. As present every one's base period is the entire year 1937. If you have unchanged wage credits of only $300.00 in your base period, the maximum amount you can be paid is $50.00. If your benefit amount is $5.00, you can only receive ten payments of this amount before your benefit rights are exhausted.

Q: What are unchanged wage credits?

A: Wage credits are the amounts you have earned from employers covered by the Mississippi Unemployment Compensation Law. Any amounts earned in excess of $300.00 per quarter do not count as wage credits. The Commission maintains an account of your wage credits, and each time you are paid a benefit check, six times the amount of this check is charged against your wage credits.

Q: What is a benefit year?

A: This is a 52-week period beginning with the first week for which a person is paid unemployment benefits.

Q: What is the significance of the benefit year?

A: When your weekly benefit amount has once been calculated, it remains unchanged throughout a benefit year. The limitations on the number of benefit payments you may receive apply only for one benefit year. After your benefit year is over, if you still have some unchanged wage credits in your base period, your benefit amount and the number of payments you may receive are re-determined for a new benefit year.

TEST SHOWS VALUE OF COMPLETE FEED FOR GROWING BIRDS

Well-Developed Pullet Turns in $68 More Profit

Gray Summit, Mo.—An old proverb laments that "one half of the world never knows how the other half lives." This is particularly true of growing pullets, as demonstrated in a test here at the Purina Experimental Farm last year.

Two hundred sturdy, well-developed six weeks old pullets were selected for the experiment. All birds were from the same hatch and for the first six weeks were fed on Purina Startena. At six weeks the two hundred pullets were as nearly alike as heredity, management, and good feeding could make them.

At six weeks the chicks were divided. One hundred birds were put into a pen and fed all the grain they could eat, along with the grasshoppers and bugs they picked up on alfalfa range. The other hundred were given all the Purina growing mash they could eat. It was kept before them in open hoppers. These birds were also allowed alfalfa range. Management and housing conditions were the same for both flocks, and each flock was given the best sanitation.

Differences Show Early "Almost immediately a slight difference in the development between the two flocks began to show," C. S. Johnson, manager of the Purina Poultry Department says, "but at

Well-developed pullet from the flock fed on complete growing mash.

5 months the most amazing differences were apparent. Birds fed on grain and Purina growing mash were mature, strong and sturdy, with well-developed egg-making organs and big frames. They were ready to go into the laying house and start turning out profitable, high-priced fall eggs.

The hundred birds fed on grain and allowed alfalfa range were under-sized and immature, knobby and scrawny. Even though they had received the same starting mash as the hundred well-developed pullets, although management and housing had been the same, the ration the fully fed pullets received during the growing period had given them an advantage that could not be overcome.

Unprofitable, undersized bird fed on grain and range.

At five months both the growing-mash fed pullets and the grain-fed pullets were put on the same laying ration. The pullets fed on growing mash responded immediately but the grain fed pullets did not. The "roughing" they had received from the sixth to the twentieth week held them back. Consequently, the hundred scrawny pullets did not come into production until they were 7½ months old, and by the time they were eight months old had laid only $6.50 worth of eggs.

Good Birds Turn in $74

The well-developed pullets grown out on a complete growing feed started laying at five months. Proper feeding during the growing period had given them big frames, strong muscles, and well-developed egg-making organs so that they were in peak condition to start laying. During the fall and early winter months when egg prices were high these birds were in good production and at the end of 8 months had turned in a record of $74.75 worth of eggs, or $68.25 more than the under-developed pullets. The hundred immature, knobby little pullets were an additional expense in that they used their laying ration as a growing feed after they were in the laying house.

"Any poultryman who feels he can 'rough' his pullets through the summer is sure to find that they 'rough' him back in the fall when egg prices are high," Johnson says. "Grain and cheap mash, or grain alone, can't do a money-making job of growing and developing pullets into profitable layers. A half-way job of growing birds results in a half-way job of laying when they are put into the laying house."

"STOMACH DISTRESS WAS DUE TO ROUND WORMS"

says woman of 45

"At 45 I'm still troubled with stomach worms at times," says Mrs. Wm. C. Todd. "All my four children had worms. I told a neighbor her daughter had them, but they laughed at me and said she was just full of worms. The doctor had to see anything like it. They don't laugh at me now."

Stomach distress that won't yield to stomach medicines may be caused by these troublesome parasites far more often than commonly supposed. "As high as 49% of the children in certain schools had worms," says U. S. Gov't Bulletin 228. Even adults are by no means immune. If hourly or daily stomach treatments haven't helped you MAY have Round Worms. Jayne's is mild, mint-flavored, staple and pleasant to take. No dieting or starving, or million bed-pans sold. Quite a little publicity is being given concerning the colossal pine tree recently cut and marketed in Stone county. A portion of the trunk of this pine is on exhibit up in the old Capitol in Jackson. This mammoth king of the forest stood, before being cut for commercial reasons, 114 feet high, had a limb spread of 78 feet, and was five feet in diameter at its base. After being felled, three 2-foot logs were cut from it, which, it is estimated will produce 5000 board feet of fine lumber. The specimen from this tree was shipped to the Forestry Commission which housed in the old Merchant Bank Building, but it was too large to be accommodated by the small elevator in that building, and had to be placed in the corridor of the Old Capitol.

Now, here is another Chapter in the history of this giant tree: It is not known just how old this tree was, but it is said that it was a seedling when d'Iberville and Bien, ville landed on the Mississippi Coast at Biloxi in 1699. It is also said that General Andrew Jackson and his staff stopped under this famous tree on the memorable trip to New Orleans.

Another item of interest as to Mississippi forestry products: Mr. F. A. Anderson, manager of the Gloster Lumber Company, reports the cutting of what is known as a Rosemary pine tree 185 years old, and that the tree measured 92 feet to the first limb, and that four 16-foot logs were cut from same, containing 9000 board feet of lumber. And thus, Stone and Amite counties are rivals for the distinction of producing the largest pine trees.

Under the provisions of the recently passed law, Senate Bill No. 335, creating the body corporate of the Mississippi Livestock Show, and providing for four district livestock shows for the districts designated by the Directors or managers, as follows: For the southwest district—at Port Gibson; for the southeast district—Forest, Scott county; for the northeast district—at West Point; and for the northwest district—at Como, Tate county.

The stock show at Port Gibson, and the one at Forest, in Scott county, have already been held and were highly successful. The one at West Point will be held April 6th and 7th, and the one at Como will be held in May. By the provisions of the new law, the Agricultural Commissioner, the Director of Extension Service, and the President of the Mississippi Livestock Association were designated as the directors or administrators of this law, all to serve without compensation.

Attorney General Greek L. Rice and Hon. Forrest B. Jackson, Attorney for the Mississippi Industrial Commission, returned from Washington, D. C., on last week, where they had been before the United States Supreme Court to secure a final hearing in the case of Albritton vs. the City of Winona.

This case was an appeal from a bond issue under Governor White's Industrial Act, originating at Winona, Montgomery county. The bonds, authorized by an election, as provided, were validated by the Chancery Court, and Albritton appealed the case to the Supreme Court of Mississippi, claiming that said bonds were invalid under the Constitution of Mississippi of 1890. The Supreme Court of this State upheld the constitutionality of the Act. Albritton's case was then appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States, in order to finally and definitely determine all of these questions. The case is now on the docket of the United States Supreme Court, and it is believed that a definite decision on the constitutionality and validity of these bonds will be made within a very short time, which will finally set the matter at rest.

Refrigerator Romance

There is no more romantic place of equipment in the home than the modern mechanical refrigerator. The health and comfort of every member of the family from the baby in his crib to the grandfather in his chair is dependent on the refrigerator—a big responsibility for one lone appliance to assume but one which it accepts without hesitation. And what a comfort it is to every homemaker to know that the baby's milk will be sweet and fresh when feeding time comes. The meats she bought on the Friday specials will be good for Tuesday's dinner. The vegetables gathered from the garden or the market on Tuesday will still retain their garden dewiness on Friday. Eggs bought from the man at the kitchen door will remain fresh in spite of hot weather.

The left-over roast from Sunday's dinner will come in handy for a rush lunch on Tuesday and the vegetables will combine nicely with a quick broiler meal on Monday. Juices from all the cans of fruit opened during the week will be fresh and combined will make a delicious punch for Saturday night.

A party for thirty guests presents no problem because congealed and frozen salads and desserts can be made ahead of time and stored. Sandwiches made early in the day will keep fresh and moist.

The homemaker's greatest friend is her modern mechanical refrigerator because she can depend on its constant low temperature to prevent bacteria from multiplying and to keep her family safe.

City Council

The City Council met Monday, March 7, 1938 at 7:30 p. m., at the City Hall in regular session with the following present: E. C. Neely, Mayor; J. D. Crenshaw, Marshal; Mrs. W. Y. West, Recorder, and Aldermen, E. M. Whitaker, J. D. Moss, John Bradley, and Geo. Criss. Aldermen J. H. Murray and G. S. Kent were absent.

Reports of O. D. Spratlin, county superintendent of education, F. A. Kincaid, superintendent of water department, Mrs. W. Y. West, city recorder, Mrs. Lela Pearson, custodian Community House, and Miss Katherine Brewer, water department collector, for the month of February, 1938, received and adopted.

Mayor Neely reported that he tried 48 cases and collected fines totaling $162.00.

Marshal J. D. Crenshaw reported 38 arrests for the city and one the matter at rest.

It is the opinion of General Rice and Mr. Jackson that there is no Federal question involved in the case, and that the Supreme Court of the Nation will not take jurisdiction of the case.

The entire litigation is merely a friendly suit, instituted for the purpose of setting at rest any and all doubts of its unconstitutionality, and to thus enable other towns and political subdivisions of the State to take advantage of the provisions of the Industrial Act in securing important industries.

The impeachment charges preferred by the House of Representatives against Land Commissioner R. D. Moore last week, which action the public is more or less familiar with, were sent to the Senate, and that body, charged by the Constitution with the final trial of Mr. Moore on these charges, has set a tentative date for April 12th on which to open the trial.

Last week was expected to have been the last week of the 1938 legislative session, but with the interruption brought about by the Moore impeachment charges, it was decided that the calendar could not be cleared until April 7. It is now expected that on that date a recess will be taken until the date set for the Senate's court of impeachment.

It will be of interest to the public that on April 1st the Governor approved Senate Bill No. 161, providing for creation of a Public Safety Commission, a highway patrol system and a driver's license law. Title 1 of the new law, providing for the Public Safety Commission and highway patrol is effective on and after May 1, 1938, but the driver's license law, or Title 2 of the Act is not effective until November 1, 1938.

DEFINITE RELIEF OR MONEY BACK

THE WILLARD TRIMMERY has been... (text is small and partially illegible)

Washington, D. C., April 7—It is no longer a secret that the President's popularity has fallen off so alarmingly in the past six months that lights are burning far into the night—and every night—where the boards of strategy, official and unofficial, meet.

Exactly how much support he has lost it is difficult to say but it is generally conceded that while he could still carry an election now, he will not be able to do so in November next unless the trend away from him is checked. And the three well defined groups of his advisors are not at all in accord as to the method of checking.

The Conservative group has been reduced to despair by two recent events—his removal of Dr. Morgan as head of the TVA, which the Conservatives feel smacked too much of dictatorial power—and his speech on Southern federalism which they believe alienated the wealthier and more cautious Southern Democrats.

The Radical groups of his advisors feel that these two moves have been but feeble and faltering steps in the right direction. They argue that his popularity is waning in direct proportion to the increase of this new depression. And while they regret that he did not attack sooner they urge him to point out to the country that the new depression is due first to a Congress which revolted against Administration measures while accomplishing nothing on its own; second, to a greedy taking of excessive profits by big business which resulted in high prices; and third to an allegedly organized attempt at sabotage of New Deal prosperity by the old dealers.

Naturally it is too late to accomplish anything by simply making these charges. They insist that he must go before the voters with a definite program and that program must consist of, first, and increase in taxes on the rich, on capital, on undistributed income, and, in some way, on excessive prices. There must be, they say, a wage-hour law which will spread employment, and a more comprehensive farm bill which will insure an adequate living to the farmer while it gives food to the public at a reasonable and stable price. And they want to bust the trusts.

It is pointed out that no such radical program need be feared for the President is primarily a politician and has up to now shown neither sympathy with nor ability to fill such a dictatorial role. And both his Conservative and Radical advisors fear that he will end up on the fence between the two of them and they sigh audibly for the old days when Louis McHenry Howe was at the Roosevelt elbow to guide things with that comparative smoothness which marked the early days of the New Deal.

SUNDAY CLOSING LAW SHOULD BE ENFORCED 100% IF AT ALL.

Mayor Neely appointed a committee of three aldermen at the regular monthly meeting Monday night to work with a committee of three merchants in the matter of seeing "just how far" the citizens wished the officers to go in enforcing the Sunday closing laws.

Mayor Neely said, in effect, that the law was very stringent and if the officers carried out the letter of the law it might be going too far. When and if the Sunday closing law is rigidly enforced, the wrong man's toes will have been stepped on, then will come the backwash. There can be no half-way mark in enforcing the law. It should be enforced 100% or not at all. We don't see how a committee of merchants can recommend otherwise when they are asking that the law be enforced.

The Italians in Grenada are all citizens or have applied for citizenship papers. They have made good citizens. They have made their money here and have invested it here. They have constructed good homes and store buildings and their total investments in Grenada will run close to $70,000.00.

If we thought non-observance of the Sunday closing laws would tend to keep someone away from Sunday School or church we would be in favor of strict enforcement, but we don't. All of the Italians are of the Catholic faith. There are not sufficient Catholics in Grenada to support a Catholic church, but a priest comes to Grenada regularly every month and holds services. The Italians attend these services.

There are many people in and around Grenada who can neither afford a mechanical refrigerator or ice and must of necessity buy their perishable groceries for Sunday on Sunday morning. They are due some consideration. And there are a number of laborers, cross tie cutters, haulers, etc., who do not receive their pay until Sunday. They have to have groceries. Do we want them to go to Coffeeville or elsewhere for them?

We are frank to say that we are in favor of a good picture show on Sunday (not conflicting with church hours). It may be a deviation from the path that we were brought up in but we feel it would be much better for all concerned. The parents would know where their children were, if they attended a show, and would know that they were not ripping and roaring up and down the highway in an automobile or possibly indulging in other things which they do.

THE VALUE OF FACTORIES

A group of Ohio unionists have proposed a law to restrict or prevent "decentralization of industry," a phrase which means the moving of factories away from present industrial centers.

The unionists fear that many of the Ohio factories in which they work will move to other states and they will have to move too or find other jobs. Even more than that, it means they realize they could have no jobs and no homes without the factories.

Yet they gave little consideration to this thought last year when they took charge of various industrial plants and deprived those who wanted to work the right to do so. They evidently thought, at the time, that every industrial plant was like the Rock of Gibraltar—that it couldn't be moved.

When the attitude of this group is put alongside that of Governor White the result is interesting. Governor White's program, BAWI offers free buildings and Tax exemption to factories who would locate in Mississippi. Thus we find workers in factories seeking to keep them where they are and Governor White interested in the welfare of Mississippi seeking to get some factories in order to Balance Agriculture With Industry.

In short, both unionists and Governor White appreciate the value and importance of factories and industry. That they are important not only to communities but the state and nation as a whole is a truism which a few short-sighted planners seem to have forgotten.

WHY NOT SAVE THAT MUCH?

The Senate Finance Committee in its deliberations on a new tax bill readily reached the conclusion that one of the major contributions to the present depression was the Undistributed Profits Tax. For two years now, this tax has drained the reserves needed by business for expansion and replacement of equipment.

The Committee moved to repeal the tax or seriously modify it. But in rushed the Treasury with the cry that to do this would cut revenues by some $40,000,000 and that other taxes would have to be found to replace the Profits Tax if repealed.

The Treasury might give thought to saving the $40,000,000 instead of finding it from another source. It would be very easy, indeed, to save $40,000,000 and many more millions out of today's political extravaganzas.

THE BEST WAY TO END WAR YET

And now comes Miss Jean Coldwell, of Broadway, with the best idea for ending war that we have yet heard. Miss Coldwell proposes to organize a "blond brigade," composed of the nation's most beautiful blonds, with no artillery except that something "it," which most blonds have, to stop friend or foe in his tracks.

"Nobody would fight a beautiful blond," said Miss Coldwell. "Think of the effect of thousands of beautiful blonds in front line trenches. It would end all wars."

While we feel the lady is correct as far as she goes, we feel she does not carry the idea far enough. The thought, no doubt, had not occurred to her that her "blond brigade" is most likely to precipitate a revolution among our own forces. To make the thing fair for both sides we suggest that she organize an international association of blonds, with every major power having a "blond brigade." Then, when war does come our boys will get a break.

Yes, we believe blonds can stop a war—We have considered stopping many times for them.

SAM'S FLOWER GARDEN

(An editorial from the Rotarian Magazine)

Easy to do. But what a difference it made on busy Stephenson Avenue, Iron Mountain, Michigan! Sam Cudlip spaded up the space between the sidewalk and the curb alongside his drug store and planted an old-fashioned flower garden. On a hot, busy business street in mid-August it was the brightest, cheerfulness thing in sight, and stirred the editor of a local service-club paper to utter this thought, which we wholeheartedly commend and pass on:

"What better program could be devised by this club for the spring months than planting some flowers in some of the unsightly places that are now eyesores to all those who would like to be proud of the city?"

Few articles cost less than a packet of flower seeds. Few forms of exercise are more stimulating than spading up a bit of soil in early spring. And few things are more satisfying to both eye and soul than flowers that bloom after such labor.

THE FARMER'S FUTURE

What a farmer plants, and how much he reaps, is already being suggested to him by the federal government. The motive, of course, is sound—to assure him a fair return for his time, investment, and effort. But that is just the beginning of a trend which promises more outside supervision.

Congress is considering a bill to regulate wages and hours. It would specifically exempt farmers. But that very exemption is a clear indication of a belief that Congress has the power to set the wages the farmer pays his hands and the hours he works them.

Even more significant are two developments. First, the National Labor Relations Board has just decided that it has jurisdiction over farm marketing cooperatives. It instructed the North Whittier Heights Citrus Association of Puente, Calif., to reinstate with back pay 27 packing house workers who had been dismissed.

Second is the new Wagner bill, now a subject of Congressional study. That really gets down to brass tacks. It would force any person who sells goods to the government to agree to let the government supervise his dealings with his employees. Even the farmer who sells vegetables to a federal veterans' hospital might be compelled to let a Washington agency dictate his relations with his farm hands.

Again, even if the farmer should be specifically exempted from the proposed new law, that would be an assertion of Congressional power to apply it to him. And a future Congress not so friendly toward the farmer could easily amend the law.

It's certainly going to be an interesting future for the farmer!

SAFETY FOLLOWS "CLEAN-UP WEEK"

Spring clean-up week, which is an annual observance, in thousands of American communities and should be in all of them, is in the offing. The week was started primarily as a beautifying movement—old shacks are torn down, vacant lots are cleaned of debris, homes are painted, grass-grown fields are cut and the harvest burned. It's amazing how little is needed in many cases to change a squalid street to one that is pleasant and charming to the eye.

Furthermore, something other than a better looking town results from a clean-up week that is loyally and enthusiastically supported by all citizens. For a sound, thorough clean-up process is one of the best possible ways of getting rid of fire hazards. A town which rids itself of old, unused buildings, and which does away with litter and grass-ridden lots, becomes a far safer place in which to live and work.

Clean-up week should not stop at exteriors. As the National Board of Fire Underwriters points out, everyone should go through his home inside as well as out in search of fire dangers. A congested attic or basement, filled with ancient magazines and broken furniture and clothes that will never be used again, is the perfect starting place for a blaze. Frayed or amateurishly repaired light cords, improperly stored inflammable liquids, dirty or worn heating units—from such things as these come fires that destroy hundreds of millions of dollars worth of property and thousands of lives.

Every town should make this year's clean-up week the most thorough in its history. It's an easy job, if everyone does his bit to help. And it will pay big dividends, in beauty, safety and cash.

PAT FOR PRESIDENT

The press of the nation seems to be fully agreed that Senator Pat Harrison is the real leader of the Senate despite the fact that a Senator from Kentucky holds the title. Many editors are mentioning him as a Presidential possibility in 1940.

Pat should know that his home folks are mighty proud of the way he has been handling himself on the subject of taxation. A typical utterance is from the West Point Times-Leader as follows:

There is no denying the fact that Pat Harrison is right now the most important figure in Congress. As chairman of the Senate finance committee, he has made it known that punitive taxes against business and industry must be either modified or repealed. In taking this stand, he has incurred the animosity of the White House, and of the leaders of the Democratic party as it is now constituted.

But this doesn't worry Pat Harrison, who knows that he is right, and that right will ultimately prevail in this country.

It would not be at all surprising to see the conservative Democrats of the nation rally around the big Mississippian for President.

So go right ahead, Pat, and fill your appointed destiny. Home folks are with you, well-knowing that you are as good as the best on Capitol Hill and a darned sight better than most.—Jackson Daily News.

Health and Safety Program Completed

Plans for the extension of the Health and Safety program of the Boy Scouts of America were completed at a meeting of the Delta Council Health and Safety Committee at Camp Tallaha last week according to advice just received from P. R. Googe, of Charleston, Chairman.

Dr. Googe stated that the Health and Safety program of Scouting is a three-fold one:

Protection — Medical examination for present and new Scouts and leaders; inspection of troop and pack meeting places and training of leaders.

Education — to interest Scouts in positive health knowledge and safety skills through the use of such challenging devices as demonstrations, competitions, exhibitions, advancement in rank and community service.

Service — the development of emergency service units to aid persons in distress resulting from floods, tornadoes and earthquakes.

"In order to carry out this full program we plan to enlist public safety, firearms, fire prevention, fire aid experts to serve on the Health and Safety Committee," said Dr. Googe.

Marketing 1938 Irish Potatoes

Jackson, Miss., April 5—Plans for marketing the state's 1938 crop of Irish potatoes under proposed marketing agreements which will cover Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, and Texas, will be worked out at a meeting of county agents, marketing specialists, commercial potato growers and local dealers, at Hattiesburg, April 6. E. H. White, state director of extension, announced today.

Copies of the notice of hearing signed by Secretary Wallace and of the proposed early potato marketing agreement program for the Gulf States have been mailed by Director White to county agents, potato growers and dealers, for their information prior to the meeting.

Director White said certain information must be developed at the hearing at Hattiesburg for use in determining the provisions of the agreement. Information must be obtained on acreage, yields, production, varieties grown, daily and seasonal shipments and average A. O. B. prices.

The methods of grading and packing, marketing, length of the marketing season, the extent of competition from potato marketings in other areas, and distribution outlets and marketing channels to consuming centers, likewise must be described, the extension director said.

After the marketing agreement is tentatively approved by the Secretary a referendum must be conducted among the growers. To become effective, two-thirds of the growers voting must favor the marketing agreement. The referendum will be directed by the state AAA Committee and the State Extension Service.

Articles of the proposed agreement cover general cull regulations, grading and inspection, grade and size regulations, exemptions, compliance, areas committee including membership, organization, powers, duties and procedure, state advisory committee, effective time and termination of the agreement and other subjects.

State's First Money Crop Starts Toward Markets Of Nation

March Shipments of Peas and Cabbages Begin Movement, Fruits, Vegetables, Which Totals Nearly 7000 Cars Annually

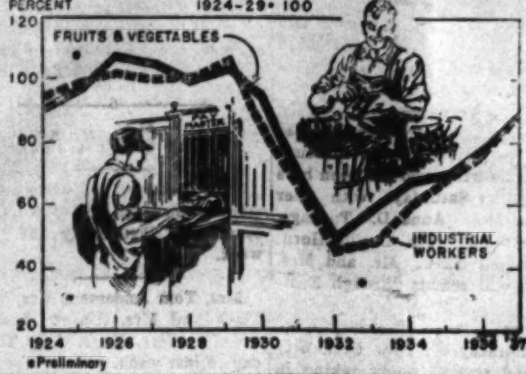

Starting about three weeks earlier than usual, the annual movement of fruits and vegetables is now beginning in the trucking area with carlot shipments of English peas and cabbages. It is Mississippi's first money crop of the year 1938.

Scattered shipments were made during the week of March 29-April 2, and the movement is expected to develop rapidly with dry weather and sunshine. The first carload of peas was shipped last year on April 20, and the first carload of cabbages on April 19. Last year the Federal-State Inspection Service reported 9 cars of peas shipped during the week ending April 24, 116 cars during the second week, and 103 during the third week ending May 8. The first week's movement of cabbages which ended April 24 totaled 7 cars. During the second week there were 173 cars, 544 cars during the third week, and the peak of 714 carloads was reached during the week which ended May 15.

Complete data as to the movement in 1937 is not yet available, but of major commodities our farmers shipped 2,087 carloads of cabbages, 185 carloads of beans, 273 carloads of peas, 585 carloads of mixed vegetables, 2,104 carloads of tomatoes, 107 carloads of sweet potatoes, 963 carloads of Irish potatoes, and 472 carloads of watermelons. To be added to this total of 6,740 carloads of major commodities is a number of minor commodities shipped to the extent of nearly 100 cars in 1936, so that the total is expected to be somewhere in the neighborhood of 6,850 carloads. This is slightly less than the movement of 1936 which totaled 7,400 carloads, but compares very favorably with the movement of 5,946 carloads during 1935, and 4,369 carloads in 1934.

"The business of producing fruits and vegetables; important though it is, is not as large as many of us would like to see and as conditions seem to justify," stated J. C. Holton, commissioner of agriculture. "Nevertheless, it is a viable, is in healthy condition, and our farmers are constantly seeking to expand in fields of production not already fully occupied. Note, for example, expansion of the movement of Irish potatoes from 120 cars in 1933 to 963 cars in 1937, and of watermelons from 14 cars in 1933 to 472 in 1937. We expect that the 1938 season may be financially successful, for upon that basis we may continue the development of this highly important industry."

INCOME FROM FRUITS AND VEGETABLES RELATED TO INCOME OF INDUSTRIAL WORKERS

Farmers' income from fruits and vegetables and the income of industrial workers are closely related. Both of these rise and fall with industrial activity. Unless city workers make money they cannot buy fruits and vegetables and without money growers cannot buy manufactured goods. The chart shows that in 1932 the income from fruits and vegetables dropped to 50 percent of the average for 1924-29 and the income of industrial workers fell to 46 percent of their average income for that period. In 1937 it is estimated that the income of the two groups was about 50 percent of the 1924-29 average.

"An Almost Ideal Farm Program"

Jackson, Miss., April 2—Adoption by Congress of amendments to the 1938 AAA farm act already approved by the Senate and House conference committee will give cotton farmers of the South "an almost ideal farm program," T. M. Patterson, administrative officer of the AAA declared here today.

Highly elated over the prospect of still further improving the farm program, Patterson said "the amendments will give greatly needed relief to the 15 or 20 percent of cotton producers who would have had to take a drastic cut in cotton acreage and they will improve the program for all farmers."

The amendments will increase the state cotton acreage allotment 4 percent and provide that no producer's allotment shall be less than 50 percent of his 1937 base acreage or his 1937 planted acreage whichever is greater.

Administrator Patterson said the increase in the acreage allotment will make it possible to give all small farmers the minimum 5 acre allotment and will save eight to ten thousand Mississippi producers from a too drastic restriction in cotton acreage.

Many farmers will not receive any of the additional 4 percent in acreage allotment, the administrator explained. It will all be used for the small producers and for growers who otherwise would be cut below 50 percent of their 1937 base or planted acreage.

Under changes already approved by Secretary Wallace, the soil-building payment will be increased from 25 percent to 300 percent for most farmers. The soil-building payment will now be 1 1/2 times the cotton acreage allotment less the number of acres in cropland times 70 cents. Before the change it was 2 times the cotton acreage allotment less the cropland times 70 cents.

"The changes will give added impetus to prevention of erosion and improvement of soil fertility," Patterson said, "as farmers can now earn more money for growing soil-building crops and for carrying out soil-building practices."

"Ship-mast" Locust For Mississippi

Jackson, Miss., April 2—Propagation of the "Ship-mast" Locust tree grown in the East will be attempted by Mississippi within the next few weeks at the University nursery, Fred B. Merrill, state forester, announced.

Root cutting of the tree, similar to the Black Locust grown in the South, will be set out by the State Forestry Commission's nurseryman and within the next two years, root cuttings will be taken from the first seedlings for new plantings.

Mr. Merrill said that commercial production takes from 10 to 15 years to develop, and because of the tree's peculiarity in lack of seeding, root cuttings are used to reproduce. The cuttings sell for $50 per thousand, the State is securing 100 per planting at the nursery.

Mr. Merrill also stated that a suitable location for a side CCC camp had been found in Clarke County, at an abandoned consolidated school site. It is approximately 45 miles from Meridian and about 50 men are planned to be located there to continue work on telephone systems in Clarke and Jasper counties for fire protection work. Watch towers and call stations are being installed in this area, he said.

The Forestry Commission's WPA traveling exhibit on naval stores and other products is being materially aided by the Masonite Corporation, which has agreed to furnish Masonite for the exhibits. These exhibits have received widespread interest wherever shown, and school children have enjoyed the display.

In connection with these school exhibits, Mr. Merrill said that there have been 17,519 copies of the forestry textbook, "First Steps in Southern Forestry Study," sold to date for use in state schools. These textbooks are placed in the seventh and eighth grades and it is estimated that over 30,000 students have studied the course.

CCC To Celebrate 5th Birthday April 5

Jackson, Miss., April 2—The Civilian Conservation Corps in Mississippi will celebrate its fifth birthday, April 5, and during that week camps employed in the state parks will observe open house. The public is invited to visit the camps and the parks in general.

This organization which has been in existence only five years has accomplished much both in building men and in conservation of natural resources.

Company 4444 at Morton, held their program Friday and Saturday, April 1 and 2, celebrating the occasion, and the camp and park was open to visitors. A contest in races and field events was held, which attracted scores.

Company 2442, near McComb, has postponed its special day until Sunday, April 10, and on that day will take pleasure in showing their accomplishments to visitors.

The camp at Utica has planned an extensive program during the week to display soil erosion work accomplished. Prominent CCC officials will be present to speak.

The celebration set for April 7 at the Calhoun City Camp is postponed because of quarantine for scarlet fever.

Allotments For 49 Counties Ready

Jackson, Miss., April 2—Working at top speed seven days a week and late at night, the State AAA office through Saturday had handled and approved 1938 cotton acreage allotments for 49 counties in the state.

T. M. Patterson, administrative officer in charge AAA, said the state office is handling several counties a day and that he expects to complete the huge job within the next two weeks. He lauded the work of the county agents and their assistants who have exerted every effort in the attempt to give farmers their allotments by cotton planting time.

Involving the checking of all data on all work sheets, the compilation of additional information, the entry of countless figures and the making of numerous calculations for every farm, according to law, the work done is regarded as an unusual achievement.

The work has been delayed in a few counties by tardiness of some of the producers in providing the county offices with the necessary information on their farms.

Counties for which the acreage allotments have already been approved include: Adams, Carroll, Choctaw, Claiborne, Coahoma, Forrest, Franklin, George, Grenada, Hancock, Harrison, Holmes, Humphreys, Issaquena, Jackson, Jasper, Jefferson, Jefferson Davis, Jones, Kemper, Lamar, Lawrence, Leflore, Madison, Marion, Panola, Pearl River, Perry, Quitman, Sharkey, Smith, Stone, Sunflower, Tate, Tunica, Washington, Wilkinson, and Winston.

Counties in the state office which will be approved within the next two days are: Attala, Bolivar, Covington, Greene, Lee, Montgomery, Rankin, Simpson, Tallahatchie, Walthall and Warren.

MISSISSIPPI FARM NEWS

(By F. J. Hurst)

Mississippi farm boys and girls are becoming increasingly interested in forestry as the best means of utilizing thousands of acres of idle lands and steep, eroded cropland that will pay better dividends in trees. Under the direction of the county agents and volunteer club leaders, the 4-H Club boys and girls are learning the importance of controlling woods fires and the value of practicing good forestry management. Thousands of club members have planted trees for future timber crops.

Mississippi farmers are making great strides in improving the quality and value of livestock produced in the state. The recent livestock shows and sales at Port Gibson and Forest showed that Mississippi has some of the finest beef cattle herds in the South. The higher prices received for finished animals of good type demonstrated the value of good breeding. With increased production of feed crops and the expansion of acreage in improved pasture under the farm program, cattle will furnish one of the best means of utilizing and marketing these crops and pasture grasses.

The rapid increase in the number of trench silos indicates that they are becoming more popular with livestock farmers as a means of saving succulent feed for winter feeding. Sorghum produces a heavy yield and makes good silage. April is the best month for planting the silage crop. Japanese Seeded Ribbon Cane is the best variety.

More Latitude For Game Commission

Jackson, Miss., April 6—Conservation and restoration of Mississippi's game and fish will be undertaken on a broader scale following Leg's active enactment of a modernized conservation law.

Under provisions of the new law, the State Game and Fish Commission is given more latitude in its conservation program and also authority to match Federal funds for participation in a restoration program. The state commission is permitted to use $15,000 secured from the sale of licenses to supplement a Federal allocation of $40,000 for restoration purposes.

One of the most important changes in the game and fish laws is the $1 fishing license provision, applicable only to those using artificial bait in fresh waters. It also applies to use of pole and line when fishing from a boat, dredge and raft in lakes and ponds, but not in running streams.

Fishing from banks with pole and line does not require a fishing license, unless artificial bait is used. Payment of a $2 fee entitles the entire family to fish, instead of requiring each to secure a separate $1 license.

A $3 non-resident license for fishermen is also one of the new laws, taking the place of the old statute of $1 for a trip license and $5 for year round privileges. The new law carries no trip permit provision.

Of the revenues derived from the fishing license, 25 cents will be earmarked for fish rescue work and eradication of predators. The other 75 cents is to be used to maintain wardens the year round, the plan being to have a full-time warden in each county.

Closed season on fish was fixed in the new law during the months of March and April, the spawning periods. This applies only to fresh water as does the other provisions dealing with fishing.

No change was made in the hunting licenses insofar as they apply to resident sportsmen.

For non-resident hunters, the license for small game was fixed at $15 as against $25 as heretofore applying. This applies to quail, squirrels and rabbits. No change was made with regard to big game hunting, the license being retained at $25 and applies to turkey and deer.

The new law eliminates the county and state non-resident hunting licenses which were $10 and $25 respectively.

Hunters from out of the state may secure a seven day trip license for $5 to hunt small game. The license is good for seven consecutive days, but does not apply to big game.

Director Si Corley of the State

Uncle Jim Says

Most city folks don't realize a 10 cent loaf of bread contains less than two cents worth of wheat and a dollar shirt is made from less than 20 cents worth of raw cotton.

Game and Fish Commission characterized the new laws, sponsored by sportsmen over the state, as "the most progressive program for the development and replenishing of fish and game ever enacted."

New fishing licenses go into effect May 1 and run to June, 1939, after which they will be issued from July 1 to June 30.

Hunting licenses will be sold on the same fiscal year basis, instead of running from October 1 to the following September 30 as now is the case. Hunting license issued up to the time of passage of the law remain in effect to September 30.

Members of the State Game and Fish Commission administering the conservation laws are:

Chairman W. E. McIntyre, of Brandon; Secretary Ben M. Stevens, of Richton; Vice-Chairman George Weathers, of Greenville; Colonel Reuben R. Banks, of Columbus, and Colonel Edgar Wright, of Centerville.

Mayor Neelly Has Tried To Secure T. V. A. Service

T. V. A. Not Available For This Area At This Time

Mayor Neelly has been accused of not attempting to secure TVA service for Grenada, but the following letter shows that he has been falsely accused and that Grenada has little chance to get TVA at this time:

"Hon. E. C. Neelly, Mayor, Grenada, Miss.

"Dear Mayor Neelly:

"This will acknowledge your letter of March 11 inquiring as to the availability of TVA power for your City.

"Our engineers have been studying the transmission problem involved in bringing TVA power service to your general area, and we will be glad to consider your application in any plans that we may make for that territory.

"Our engineers inform me, however, that the towns in your area are so far removed from our existing dams that the reliability of service would be very questionable. It is possible that this difficulty could be overcome if some inter-tie connection could be arranged with an existing utility.

"I hope that future developments will make it possible for us to include your City in our plans.

"Very truly yours,
"Tennessee Valley Authority,

Nine colored men will be sent from the local Navy Recruiting Station to the main Station at New Orleans, La., for enlistment on the 4th of next month.

Religion In The Navy

The only flag that is ever hoisted above the stars and stripes is a white pennant, bearing a blue cross. It is called the church pennant, whenever it floats above the National Ensign it signifies that Divine Services are being conducted on board that vessel or station in the Navy.

No mother need have fear her son is beyond religious influence when he joins the Navy, for at the present time there are 87 Chaplains in the Navy, clergymen of all denominations. They not only minister to the spiritual needs of the men, but also perform extra professional duties bringing religious ideals into recreation and educational programs. By their personal intimate touch with individuals, they are able to cultivate a friendship with the enlisted personnel that produces good results.

Whether on sea or land, a chaplain is always available, a source of information, a confidante, guide and sympathizer to the sons of our American people.

In the near future Chapels will be constructed in the warships of the U. S. Navy, the first of which will be constructed in the battleships North Carolina and Washington.

The Navy Uniform

The United States Navy is second to none among the uniformed services of the world today. It is jealous and proud of its achievements. Its discipline and morale are envied by many. Its efficiency is the pride of our country. It is little wonder that it will allow no compromise with the uniform, the mark before the world.

Negro Health Week Throughout Nation April 3-10

Event Is the Climax of Year-Round Health Activities In The Colored Race

The observance of Negro Health Week is being held throughout Mississippi and the nation from April 3-10, an announcement from Dr. Felix J. Underwood, State Health Officer says. The event is the climax of year-round health activities in the colored race.

Declaring that the observance of Negro Health Week influences directly the health and well-being of the race, which comprises approximately 51 percent of the state's population, Dr. Underwood states that whatever affects the welfare of half the people of Mississippi materially affects the remainder of the state.

Negro Health Week is sponsored in Mississippi by the State Board of Health, Jeanes teachers, farm agents, extension workers, and others are cooperating, and their combined efforts last year brought Gold Seal Certificates of merit from the U. S. Public Health Service to 52 out of 54 counties participating.

The celebration this year is progressing along similar lines. Health talks are being made; health movies shown; immunization, syphilis, and tuberculosis clinics held; teeth examined; buildings painted; sanitary toilets built; and much else is being accomplished.

Dr. Underwood makes it plain, however, the Negro Health Week is only the yearly culmination of health activities among colored people and not the be-all and end-all of services to this group.

"Day in and day out," he says, "through every division of public health in operation, the State Board of Health serves the colored race to the limit of its capacity. It serves them through its county health departments, its division of vital statistics, nursing service, syphilis and tuberculosis control programs, maternal and child syphilis and tuberculosis control medical education—throughout its whole set-up. As a matter of fact, in many divisions, Negroes receive more than half the services rendered because of their greater need."

Syphilis and tuberculosis are problems of enormous consequence in the negro race, and Dr. Underwood states that not only will colored people in Mississippi be healthier and happier as a result of more intensive efforts against these diseases, but white people too will benefit by the control of syphilis and tuberculosis among those who do their cooking, nursing, washing, and numerous other personal services.

"There is no gainsaying that whatever is a problem to the negro race is a problem to the whole of Mississippi," Dr. Underwood concluded.

Normal Seasonal Operating Periods

Jackson, Miss., April 5—Wage records in seven Mississippi industries will not be used to pay benefit checks to jobless workers in the off-season periods, the Unemployment Compensation Commission announced today.

The state job insurance law, as amended at the current legislative session, requires the commission to determine which industries are seasonal and to establish "fair and reasonable general rules applicable to seasonal workers for determining the period during which benefits shall be payable to them."

The commission's rule establish the following "normal seasonal periods of operation":

Cottonseed oil mills, August 16 through April 30; cotton gins, August 1 through December 15; cotton compresses and warehouses, September 1 through January 15; fertilizer plants, January 1 through April 30; fish packing plants, August 16 through April 30; educational institutions, September 1 through May 31; and baseball clubs, April 16 through September 15th.

Explaining these rules, Executive Director Leon L. Wheelless said:

"Benefit payments under the unemployment compensation law are based entirely upon the wage records of the individual claimants. If a claimant has wage records in one of these seven industries, these records can be used as a basis for benefit payments only when the individual is unemployed during the normal seasonal period of operation.

"If this individual can show, however, that his work has been in an occupation which normally required him to stay on the job the year around, he may be eligible for benefits even in the off-season period. Moreover, if the individual has any wage records with covered firms which can not be included on the seasonal list, these records can be used in paying him benefits at any time during the year."
